Greywolf Families,

With Daylight Savings time happening this weekend, it's a great time to talk about something we have been noticing a lot of: tired kids.

A child who isn't getting enough sleep may:

- Fall asleep during the day
- Be hyperactive (especially younger children)
- Have trouble paying attention
- Struggle with school work
- Be cranky, irritable, or moody
- Have behavior problems

THE 4 B'S BEDTIME ROUTINE

- ♥ Bathing
- ♥ Book
- ♥ Brushing Teeth
- ♥ Bedtime

There are two things families can do to help ensure their child is getting enough rest.

1. Stick to a regular bedtime. Setting an evening routine that is predictable and easy to follow
2. Turn off all screens (TV, tablets, computers, video games, phones) and make sure they are not accessible should your child wake up in the night.

You may be surprised at how much sleep children need! Check out this handy chart from the National Sleep Foundation to see what time your child should go to bed based on their age and the time they need to wake up!

~Mrs. Lopez, GWE Principal
